ARCTIC WINTER GAMES

1 9 8 4

YELLOWKNIFE NWT

Yellowknife, capital city of the Northwest Territories will host the 1984 Arctic Winter Games, March 18 - 24.

Back in 1970, when Yellowknife hosted the first Games, we did so as part of the Northwest Territories centennial celebrations. The event was a highlight of a year of cultural, sporting and social events.

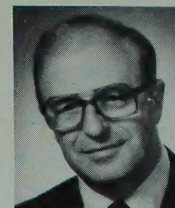

In 1984, the Arctic Winter Games will highlight yet another event — the 50th anniversary of the City of Yellowknife.

Residents of Yellowknife are proudly volunteering their support to ensure the success of the Games, and to provide a warm welcome to all athletes, coaches, officials and spectators. The federal government, the Government of the Northwest Territories and the City of Yellowknife have also pledged their support.

Athletes from such scattered locations as Point Barrow, Alaska, Old Crow, Yukon, and Pangnirtung, Northwest Territories, will be competing in events ranging from snowshoeing, cross country skiing and hockey, to badminton, volleyball and traditional Inuit sports. For each competitor, it is not only a chance to test his or her skills, but to experience and enjoy the international, social and cultural significance of these games.

In 1984 the games will include several new sports. They are indoor soccer, speed skating and triathlon.

We look forward to watching you participate in the 1984 Games, we look forward to having you as a spectator at the Games. And most of all, we look forward to meeting and getting to know many other residents of the northern part of this continent.

John H. Parker,
Commissioner of the Northwest Territories.

A hearty Northern welcome to all participants, spectators and supporters of the 1984 Arctic Winter Games.

Yellowknife, Capital City of the Northwest Territories, will play host to the 1000 athletes, coaches and officials of the Eighth Arctic Winter Games. For those who have followed the games since their inception, the 1984 Games are special, as they mark the return of this event to its birthplace and site of the first ever Arctic Winter Games in 1970.

In the years since Yellowknife first staged the Arctic Winter Games, they have become the most significant sporting event for the youth of the Northwest Territories, Yukon, and our American friends from the State of Alaska. The Arctic Winter Games are more than a common ground for developing northern athletes. They promote cultural and social interchange amongst Northern peoples and provide a most successful vehicle for communication, understanding and friendship.

On behalf of the Executive Council of the Northwest Territories I welcome all of you to Yellowknife. I know you will have a memorable time and enjoy the hospitality for which Northerners are famous.

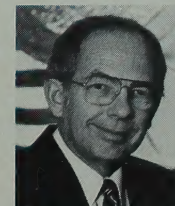

D. L. D. Bell,
Commissioner of the Yukon Territory.

Yukon athletes are proud of, and are looking forward to, the 1984 Games with our neighbours from north of 60. These Games are unique; they are broadening, in both competitions and friendships, and they are ours — they are northern!

Our thanks go out at every Games to those who dreamt, and then brought the dream to reality. Yukoners send our best regards to our hosts in the Northwest Territories; to all athletes, coaches, managers, support staff and volunteers who make it work.

May the challenges be great, may your achievements match the challenges, and may everyone's involvement be a rewarding, fulfilling and growing experience.

Go, Northerners, go!

Bill Sheffield
Governor

On behalf of the residents of Alaska, I would like to take this opportunity to wish you well as you begin to organize the 1984 Arctic Winter Games.

Alaska was privileged to host last year's games, which were a total success for both the participants and spectators.

Here's wishing you equal good fortune with the 1984 games.

History of the Games

The concept of the Arctic Winter Games germinated in Quebec City in 1967 when athletes from the Northwest Territories and Yukon fared poorly in competition at the Canada Winter Games. The Commissioners of the two territories noted that their athletes did not have the advantages of adequate facilities and coaching nor did they enjoy the opportunities to compete at similar stages of development as southern athletes.

Consultations between the two Commissioners and the Governor of Alaska resulted in the formation of the Arctic Winter Games Corporation in 1969, and in 1970 the first Arctic Winter Games were staged in Yellowknife.

In 1972 the second Arctic Winter Games were held in Whitehorse, Yukon Territory and participation was increased with the entry of Arctic Quebec.

In following years the games were staged in Anchorage, Alaska (1974), Schefferville Quebec (1976), Hay River/Pine Point, Northwest Territories (1978), Whitehorse (1980), and Fairbanks Alaska (1982).

In 1977, for financial reasons, the Province of Quebec advised that they could not continue as part of the Games.

The Arctic Winter Games are intended to be a common ground for developing northern athletes, for promoting cultural and social interchange among northern peoples, and for providing a vehicle for education, understanding and friendship between all peoples, cultures and races inhabiting the northern regions of the continent.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR

1984 is the Golden Anniversary of Yellowknife. During the past 50 years, it has grown from a small gold mining community to a modern dynamic capital city of over 10,000 people.

We take great pride in inviting you to participate in the 1984 Arctic Winter Games to be held in Yellowknife. Hundreds of athletes from Alaska, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories will come together for a celebration of sports and culture. It will be the chance of a lifetime to visit the North and enjoy our famous hospitality. In 1984 all roads lead to Yellowknife.

M. A. Ballantyne,
Mayor.
